

BASKET CASE

Woven leather details add interest to this season's basic ballet flat. Though the casual silhouette will keep her looking polished from 9 to 5, the artisan elements will set her apart. Marni adds sheen to this two-piece look with a woven design in metallic gold and royal purple. Bella by Paul Mayer ($270), Ribbonella by Bloch ($160), Flat Maria by Carolina Pagano ($550), PA-7096 by Chocolat Blu ($370), bronze flat by Schutz and Sam by Lust4Luxe ($460).

Carolina Pagano

Lust4Luxe

Paul Mayer

HOW TO WEAR IT

"I see this as a daytime shoe," says Greenawalt, who cautions that flats, if worn incorrectly, can take inches off your height. "For those under 5'7", flats look best with pants, but if you do choose a skirt, keep the hemline above the knee. If you are over 5'7", a printed dress or skirt, something with some movement to it, will add a feminine touch."

Chocolat Blu

Bloch

Schutz

Marni

ALEXANDRA SUZANNE GREENAWALT

Under the moniker Alexandra, Alexandra Suzanne Greenawalt has styled in New York City for the past eight years. It is Alexandra's experience as a stylist working on-set with renowned fashion photographers, entertainers and designers that has led to a well-connected knowledge of how to look fabulous in every situation. Learn more at www.alexandrastylist.com.